

WEEKLY BUDGETS FOR RURAL HOUSEHOLDS 2013

- The Vincentian Partnership for Social Justice has carried out research into what it costs to have a minimum essential standard of living in Ireland.
- A Minimum Essential Standard of Living (MESL) is one which meets a person's physical, psychological and social needs. It is a standard of living that is based on needs not wants, but it is more than survival.
- We have costed over 2,000 items – both goods and services - that members of the public say are necessary for a minimum standard of living for all. Items range from household items such as towels & wardrobes to the cost of visiting the doctor and buying food.
- The weekly cost of all items is calculated by dividing the cost of the item by the number of weeks it is expected to last e.g. if a jumper costs €20.00 and is expected to last 52 weeks, the cost is divided by the number of weeks it is expected to last $€20/52 = €0.38$ per week.
- Rural is defined as an area with a population of between 300 – 400, one hour distance from a major hospital, and without a secondary school, Garda station, bank or major supermarket.

What do the budgets include?

† Budgets exclude housing cost (e.g. rent or mortgage) and the effect of any secondary benefits (e.g. medical card) the household may be entitled to in a particular income situation. Expenditure is based on one adult employed full-time.

- The budgets detail the weekly cost of a minimum essential standard of living for nine sample household types.
- You can find the same information for other types of household, households in urban areas, and households in different employment situations using the online Minimum Income Standard calculator, www.MISc.ie
- You can also use www.MISc.ie to test whether the household you are working with has an income adequate to meet their minimum needs
- Further information on the household budgets, including detailed individual expenditure tables and research reports are available on the VPSJ consensual budget standards website, www.budgeting.ie
